

Explain and write in detail about each of the following: -

1- Asynchronous and synchronous data transmission methods in a computer system.

2- The various approaches which can be used in program verification.